In the document is written that the major priorities in the realization of cooperation are the modern preparation of highly educated and qualified professionals, formation of pragmatically oriented future managers and entrepreneurs, modern education of specialists in international business and the professional realization of specialists in the sphere of trade.

The UNWE and the BCCI will partner in the elaboration of joint projects, realization of research and analyses of joint interest, expert and consulting mutual assistance, preparation and realization of internship programmes, organization and implementation of various forms of practical education, participation in official events and joint initiatives.

Coordinator for the implementation of the Memorandum from the UNWE is Assoc. Prof. Vladya Borisova and from the BCCI – Chief Assist. Dr. Vasil Todorov, Secretary General of the institution.

The BCCI is the only business structure which works for a long time on the issues of intellectual property. We will send students from the UNWE for internship in your institution, we will always be available for mutually beneficial cooperation and we will try to unite our expert activity also in other fields including the modernization of our academic programmes along with the continuous assistance by the BCCI, said Prof. Stattev.

I would like to thank to the Rector Prof. Stattev for he has encouraged us to make our relations official, outlined Mr. Simeonov. In our library there are still kept the Master's theses of undergraduates and Doctoral students from the UNWE who had consulted the BCCI for the topics of their theses. The Memorandum will give an impetus to development in all spheres of our cooperation. We will give the results of our consultations with the business to the scientists from your university, said the President of BCCI.
